What exactly is lawn bowls?

A little history

Lawn bowls, also called boulingrin, is a game that originated in England. It is commonly practiced throughout the Commonwealth but remains virtually unknown in other countries. It is a bowling game that is similar to lawn curling, or any other ball sport such as boule lyonnaise or raffa volo. Lawn bowls distinguishes itself by the shape of its balls and by the type of its turf or green carpet, which is almost 40 metres long.

Although it is estimated that this game goes back to ancient times, it is from the XIIth century that it started becoming popular in England. While establishing its colonies, England helped make the sport popular in Australia, Canada and the United States.

As lawn bowls is played by men and women alike, the games are often played in the mixed format. It is an elegant sport, and one where teamwork is of utmost importance.

The World Bowls Federation, based in Edinburgh, comprises more than 50 countries. Lawn Bowls is one of the most played bowling sports in the world with more than 7,500 clubs. Australia is one of the countries where lawn bowls is extremely popular. Hong Kong, meanwhile, founded its Federation in 1961.

After boule lyonnaise, raffa volo and pétanque, it is now lawn bowls that is the latest rage in China, the only country to have its capital of bowl sports.

Rules of the game

The basic goal is to place more balls than the opponent near the jack.

The game is divided into ends that are completed when all players have rolled, in turn, all their balls. The points are then counted, and each ball placed closer than those of the opponent counts as a point. For the next end, the game is reversed, and the mat is moved. Players must always keep one foot on, or, on top of the mat when rolling their balls. If their ball falls into the ditch, it is declared as dead. Finally, lawn bowls can be played by anyone.

Equipment

FIELD

The bowling green, a flat turf or carpet (outdoor and indoor), must measure at least 36.6 m2. It is surrounded by a sand ditch and is divided into 6 tracks that allow 6 games to be played at the same time. A mat is placed on the track to mark the place where the players roll their balls. It is moved at the end of each end.

BALLS

The balls used for lawn bowls are of different sizes and must weigh up to 1.59 kg. They are slightly shaved at both poles. One side is heavier than the other, which gives them a bias.

JACK

The jack is a little white ball that serves as the target. The objective of the game is to have a maximum of balls closer to the jack than those of your opponent.

DRESS CODE

Traditionally, lawn bowls players are dressed in white (pants, shirt and cap). Today, these dress codes are not always followed, even though it remains appropriate to wear a neat and chic outfit.

The French lawn bowls team was born after the FFLB was created in 2016.

We immediately participated in a big international competition: the European Championships of lawn bowls in Jersey (United Kingdom), held from 23 to 30 September 2017. We thank the French team, comprising boule lyonnaise performers, who gave it their best shot in this first international competition. We also thank Le Coq Sportif for their partnership in providing the outfits of the French team. Our 2 French boule lyonnaise champions made quite a mark, and finished at number 12 of 16 in the women's doubles.

Congratulations to the 4 competitors for this first participation and a thank you to Andy Thomson, the eminent world champion who helped the team prepare at the Wealden Bowls Club in London in August 2017. We intend to participate in a major international competition every year. The goal of the French team is to progress each year to be part of the top 3 teams over the next 5 years. For this, we are training on the first bowling green installed in France, and hopefully soon in Lyon.

KUDOS TO THE FRENCH TEAM!

International event

France was present in China in the Asiatic lawn bowls Center (city of Huojia, Henan). It was an occasion for the vice-president of the FFLB, Bernard Champey (former boule lyonnaise world champion), and the technical director Claude Picollet to participate.

When China wakes up...

We were amazed to discover an entire bowling green complex and to see China and Hong Kong compete and unite for playing lawn bowls. China, the great bowls sports hub, is already the world champion (women) in 2 disciplines, i.e. boule lyonnaise and raffa volo.

50% of the participants in lawn bowls in China and Hong Kong are female.
